Bits 'N Pieces

Mosaic Snake

There's a nice article in the February 20, 2005, copy of The Seattle Times Magazine entitled The Art of the Garden. There are several photos of Clare Dohna's sidewalk, which she created as a mosaic snake.

Spiral Horn

The spiral horn is an elegant shape. And if made out of the correct material, it can be used for both soldered glass and mosaics. If you would like more information on how to make one, visit this web site where they make their horns to use in handmade speakers

Mosaic Risers

On a steep San Francisco hillside, Colette Crutcher and Aileen Barr, along with 3000 neighborhood volunteers, made an ordinary set of 163 stairs extraordinary by applying a mosaic scene to the stairs' risers. A color photo of this public art project, can be seen online in the Brown Alumni Magazine.

Meeting News

We will not be working on photo frames this month. Instead, look forward to taking part in Show & Tell on June 19th. Feel free to bring your current project to work on. Suzanne Hamilton Mies has volunteered to bake a cake, so be sure to invite a new glass friend to attend the meeting with you.

Please be ready with ideas for future meetings and ways to increase membership.

Fellow members have been ill recently, and we have them in our thoughts.
